Foreword

In editing this 1935 Annual, we have endeavored to give you in these brief pages a worthy memento of the many happy days spent in G. T. H. S. Of course, to give you a detailed account of all school activities would be impossible, so, instead, we have summarized the important points of as many of them as we have been able.

This year, the people of this nation are celebrating the three-hundredth anniversary of education in America. During that time education has developed from the early family method of teaching to the present day, with a public school system furnishing educational opportunity to thirty million young people, besides thousands of colleges and universities for higher learning.

It is only fitting, therefore, that, because of the national celebration of education's tercentenary, we dedicate this book to Educational Progress in America.

Etchings found on the division pages, illustrate the dress of young people during the various periods of educational history.

OUR TOUR

As we started on our tour down the Road of Learning in the fall of nineteen hundred and thirty-one, our hopes were for a successful high school career.

We did not feel so humiliated on losing our way around, as freshmen of later years have felt, because, due to the new annex, even the seniors often found themselves in the wrong rooms. With Tom Morrow at the steering wheel, we satisfactorily completed the first lap of our tour.

With Doris Withrow as chauffeur for the second year, we continued on our way. But our speed was slackened by the sadness which came over us with the passing of our dear classmate, Ione Gotthardt.

With plans for the future and the prom on our minds, we started on our third year with Jack Bartlett guiding. We had successfully accomplished a hard task when our hostess duties at the annual Junior-Senior Promenade were well executed.

Our last year has passed swiftly with Helen Orsi as our chauffeur. We have been kept too busy with such activities as senior pictures, class play, memory book, and announcements to realize that the time is swiftly passing.

We have been the first class to have the opportunity of spending all four years in the new Annex, and we have enjoyed it immensely. We have overcome many obstacles and climbed many hills on the Road to Learning, but we have not reached the top. Perhaps several of us will continue on this same road after our high school days are over while others will go right out onto the Road of Life. As a parting word, we wish to give our vote of thanks to Miss Hanna and Mr. Magdefrau for their excellent guidance and advice during our tour.

Class Will

Maury Chapman wills his "viking" stature to Eddie Wyffles.
Doris Withrow bequeaths her class recitations to Donald Frew.
Clarence Weimer wills his high, stacotto voice to Truman Tracy.
Janet Johnson leaves their new V-8 to anyone who can get a chance to use it more than she can.
Helen Hanell hopes someone else enjoys being able to quit school after Christmas as much as she did.
Merril Kukuk wills his assembly seat, where the girls gather at noon, to Keith Nordling.
Vera Sand leaves her U. S. history notebook to future seniors who can't find material to fill the blank spaces.
Tom Morrow wills his liking for debate and his success in this line to Art Erickson.
Kenneth Biddison wills his dark wavy hair to Don Harrington.
Marina Bauwens, Florence Gehn, and Gladys Westlund will their evident pleasure when Short Course starts to Opal Utter, Elizabeth West, and Regina McAvoy.
Virgil Busenbark and Gene Keag will their success as football captains to Dick Farber and Alvin Reschke.
Ruth Burgeson wills her ability to talk fast to Beulah Hogg.
Kenneth Hartman and Herbert Hines bequeath their "paliness" to Russell Erdman and Bobby Sette.
Geraldine Underwood leaves her tap dancing to be done by June Pickens.
Harry Fawcett leaves his descriptive powers to those who would like to use them in writing short stories.
Charles Sand leaves his love for foreign languages to Floyd Black.
Edith Van Auken wills her pleasure in carrying on chemistry experiments to Vera Claussen.
Jessie Carl and Alice Nelson will their quiet nature to Kathleen McNeill and Mildred Hollatz.
Gerald Sears, for the general welfare of the human race, passes on his oversupply of A's to anyone who may need them. Stand by! Don't crowd.
Kay Sweeney leaves her "Ford" to the unfortunate girl who hasn't a car.
Willard Smith wills his professor-like appearance to Lyle Henry.
Luella Rink and Ruth DeBord leave their magical effect on the opposite sex to Genevieve Mohler.
John Shoemaker wills what he knows about Economics and Banking to anyone taking Civics.
Clyde Walters wills his popularity and ease among the girls to Abram Farnam.
Greta Anderson leaves her absent-mindedness to anyone who would be willing to rid her of the pest.
Jack Mahlstedt bequeaths his seat in Civics class to the lucky boy who can persuade Miss Thomas that he should sit there.
Frank Ingram wills his rattling Ford to Clifton Reschke.
Barbara Fehlman bequeaths the "always just-so" appearance of her hair to Mark Gannon.
Lester Johnson wills his agricultural inclinations to Howard Moburg.
Ruth Deal, Janet and Velma Pobanz leave their book, "How to Keep Thin", to those wishing to reduce.
Joseph Meiresonne wills his argumentative ability, especially when there isn't anything to argue about, to the timid.
Barbara Buell wills her cute little remarks, which are usually spoken in secret, to Margaret Cox.
Anita Cady wills her love for the Time magazine and its details to Maurita Salzmann.
Eldon Larson wishes to pass on his membership papers in the Red Dome Club of America to "Red" Hoogerworf.
Irma Pobanz wills her hurrying around like a busy-bee to Pete Humbert.
Eleanor Haack wills her art of playing baseball to Marlene Schlenzen.
Violet Lohman leaves her willingness to help at anything at anytime to Corrine DePauw.
Jack Bartlett wills his success as an orchestra leader to Camiel Meiresonne.
Florence Lindgren wills her happy-go-lucky nature to Joyce Schindler.
Evelyn Connelly and Helen Orsi wish that Marcella Stafford's and Jean Lager's hair would match as well as theirs does.
John Glassburn wills his long-swinging gait to Richard Hutchinson.
Sara Jane Hanna leaves her "grown-up" appearance and conduct to Betty Jane Giebel.
Elaine Nelson wills "those eyes she can make at the boys" to Evelyn Offerle.
Burl Nicely leaves his immense size and height to Clarence Worden.
Irene Burke wills her typying ability to someone who really wants to become a stenographer.
Ethel Ogden bequeaths her laughter and nonsense to anyone studying to be a comedian.
Claude Evans bequeaths his long legs and feet to Tommy Taylor and hopes they will be of assistance when he finds himself in a crowd.
Helen Davis wishes her "sisterly love" for Eileen would be an example to all sisters in high school.

Debate

The debate teams, under the guidance of Miss Thomas, put in a good long season of hard work on the subject of "Government Grants to Public Schools", and were rewarded by a very successful season.

In the Pre-season Debate Tourney held at Augustana, Geneseo won the second place cup after a defeat by Mendota in the finals. In this contest Geneseo defeated E. Moline, Burlington, Kewanee, Rockford, Rock Island, and Sterling (two times). Two teams, Mendota and Rock Island, succeeded in downing Geneseo in this tourney.

In the Big Nine contest in which Geneseo tied for second with Moline, Geneseo won three out of four debates. Kewanee, whom Geneseo had defeated in the Augey Contest, took the first place shield by virtue of four straight wins, none of these, however, being over Geneseo.

In a contest held with Davenport, we split the bill, each negative team winning. A summary of the season shows that Geneseo won eleven and lost five debates.

The teams were as follows: Affirmative: Rollin Heller, Thomas Morrow, John Hanna, Greta Anderson (alternate); Negative: Dick Farber, Gerald Sears, Trumen Tracy, William Bean (Alternate).

Henry County Chorus

The County Chorus, under the able direction of Miss Ada K. Pyle, deserves credit for its work in the past few years. On May 1, 1934, the Henry County Track Meet was in Geneseo, and our chorus won first over many schools, with whom competition was hard. The County Chorus sang "Dear Land of Home", by Sieblius, and they also sang the selection at commencement.

Throughout the year the glee clubs have given several programs for the school and public, including a comedy entitled, "The Ladies' Aid". Miss Pyle is rapidly developing the students' appreciation for music through her classes of music appreciation and harmony.

Annual Staff

The Annual Staff again publishes a Miniature SPHINX in the hope that it will be one of your prize possessions in the years to come. We have endeavored to give you a bit of material which will bring back some of the pleasant events and good times you have had in high school.

Those who make up the staff and have contributed to this issue are: editor, Thomas Morrow; associate editor, Ruth Burgeson; business manager, John Shoemaker; staff, Ethel Ogden, Greta Anderson, Howard Goodwin and Hazel Shoemaker; artist, Evelyn Connelly, stenographer, Vera Sand; faculty sponsor, Miss Helen Madden; art advisor, Miss Marjorie Miller.

G. T. H. S. Band

The high school band was organized under the direction of Mr. Albert Miller, who acts as director and instructor of this musical organization. This group has played at several P. T. A. meetings as well as in programs given in the auditorium. They also played at the home basketball games this year, and this feature added color to the games.

This is the second year of the band's existence, and in this short length of time, remarkable progress has been made. Members of the junior band are now being promoted to the senior band as soon as they show sufficient ability.

Mr. Miller deserves much praise in the favorable manner in which he carries out his work as director and instructor of our musical organization.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society is an honorable organization, just as its name implies. Membership in this organization is based on four points: character, service, leadership, and scholarship. Students of the two upper classes are eligible for membership.

Seniors who were chosen this year were: Greta Anderson, Elaine Nelson, and Doris Withrow. Thomas Morrow and Gerald Sears were chosen in their Junior year. John Hanna was chosen from the Junior Class this year.

Senior Class Play

"HUCKLEBERRY FINN"

In celebration of the Centennial of the birth of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) the class of 1935 presented "Huckleberry Finn", as its class play. The crowd that gathered on May 28 to see the comedy was handed pamphlets commemorating the Centennial; these took the place of the usual programs.

The play, itself, makes use of scenes from the book and a great deal of sequel material. We find at the beginning of the play that Huck and Tom have been indulging in several of their well-known pranks. Aunt Polly, with whom Huck lives, is almost out of patience with him; but Ruth, her younger sister, is a good friend of his and urges Polly to keep him.

Huck's father, who was thought dead, reappears and threatens to mistreat Huck as badly as before he left. He discovers that Tom and Huck have found a large sum of money, and he tries to get this away from them by telling Huck that Ruth and Polly are tired of him and can't afford to keep him. Huck outwits his worthless father and leaves home to seek his fortune.

Throughout the play the action and humor are built up by a love affair between Ruth and Fred Raymond; the gossiping of Clara Woppinger; the mischievous revelations of her young sister, Amy; the superstition and meddlesomeness of Melba, the colored maid; and the co-operation of Mary Jane with Huck and Tom.

The third act takes place a few years later, and in it we see how the various parts of the plot have materialized—some of them in a surprising way.

IN MEMORIAM

MAE ASHER

September 21, 1919 October 23, 1934

"She died in beauty—like a rose blown from its parent stem."

Sadness enveloped the student body early in the school year when Mae Asher left her earthly home for one where her soul might rest in the light of God.

She was dear to those who knew her, and her welcoming smile and quiet ways have been missed by her friends.

Track · 1934

The 1934 season was the most successful ever experienced for Geneseo High. The team won the County Meet, placed fourth in the Big Nine and ranked fourth out of seventeen entries in the District Meet. The success of the team was due largely to the performances of Campbell and Glassburn. Campbell established a new record in Big Nine for high hurdles and also in the District Meet in that event. In the County Meet he lowered the high hurdle mark from 17.1 to 15.9 and the low hurdle mark 27.2 to 26.8. These marks are excellent for high school competition and undoubtedly will stand for some time. Glassburn was the other heavy scorer for Geneseo, winning consistently in the 100-yd. and 220-yd. dashes.

Only the boys who competed appear in the picture.

Football · 1934

This year a "light but mighty" team battled to a finish with four victories in eight starts, an enviable record, considering the great odds they met in playing teams which outweighed them from ten to twenty pounds.

Co-captains Busenbark and Keag led the team and when "Busie" hit a man he knew he had been hit. Keag started the season at Halfback, but when Coach White needed another reliable end, Gene was shifted and played an excellent season from that position.

Coach White deserves a huge amount of credit for building a speedy attack, which enabled his boys to remain in the running with much heavier and larger teams. The power of the offense was demonstrated when Roosevelt Academy was downed 41 to 6.

Although the six seniors on the squad will be greatly missed, ten lettermen will be available for next fall. In view of this, the hopes for a fine team next year are bright. At the close of the season a rabbit feed was held, and Bud Reschke and Dick Farber were chosen by their mates to lead the team next season.

Basketball • 1934-35

This year Geneseo finished the season with an even number of victories and defeats. Out of eighteen games played, the team won nine. When Geneseo was matched against a team of their own size, they usually came out on top. Unfortunately a lack of tall boys to control the ball was the dominating feature of the season's playing. Geneseo had a bunch of fighters, and they never gave up until the final gun.

Victory is not the only thing in athletics. Coach White received many compliments on the sportsmanship of his boys; and this, after all, is the fundamental purpose of competition.

The end of the season marked the end of Geneseo's participation in Big Nine basketball, and it is hoped that with Princeton and several other schools in this section a new league will be formulated.

During Christmas vacation Coach White took his team on a five-day road trip into Iowa, playing the runner-ups of the 1934 state tournament, West Waterloo, also Monticello, and Keystone. They were defeated by the first two, but registered a victory over Keystone.

Prospects for next season are excellent with six letter-men returning. Co-Captains Jim and Howard Goodwin, Tom Morrow and Gene Keag will be lost by graduation while Farber, Black, Bestor, Hoogewerf, Hanna, and Captain-elect Larimer will all be available.

In a past-season midget tournament held at Prophetstown, Geneseo downed Hillsdale, 73-4; Rock Falls, 30-26; and Prophetstown, 37-32, to win the first place trophy.
